

TO RESTORE NAME OF DAVIS

BIDS OPENED FOR RECARVING CABIN JOHN BRIDGE TABLET.

Present Inscription to Be Removed and New Letters to Be Cut in the Fresh Surface.

name of Jefferson Davis to the stone tablet on Cabin John bridge, six miles in President Lincoln's adton's birthday, less than two weeks before he left the office of chief execto be done is comparatively small and the cost very little, yet it took considerable time to get the orders through the various channels to the officer directly in charge of the work. who at once went about completing the necessary details. The bridge is a book and when you think of it it is because the members of the association hope the picnickers will eat themselves to death. And when you think of it it is high structure and considerable scaffolding has had to be erected where sort of deal without arousing suspicion the mechanics will do their work.

Culmination of Efforts.

The festoration of Mr. Davis' name to the tablet will mark the culmination of many efforts with that object in view, which, however, will finally be accomplished without the immediate But are they modest about it? Not on appeal of any organization or individual, but by the direct orders of Mr. Reconsevelt himself. An allotment of more papers are full of advertisements $250 was made for the work by the every day which hold out inducements engineer's office. The specifications asking bids for the restoration of the name read as follows:

Restoring the name of Jefferson Davis on the granite tablet on the west abutment of Cabin John bridge by removing the entire face of the stone about five by eleven feet to a depth form a new, clean smooth bushed surface and recutting the legend now upon the tablet with the addition of the name Jefferson Davis as shown upon the rubbing with 'v'-cut letters. The present ogee marginal border around the tablet is to be bushed to a clean bevel cut one and one-half inches

The Inscription.

Two stone tablets are built in the bridge, one on each abutment (south face). One bears the inscription:

The blank space in the above description indicates the place formerly filled by Mr. Davis' name. Its absence from the tablet all these years has always stimulated curiosity on the part of sightseers, who made inquiries as to why the space was blank and whose name, if any, had filled it. The presence of the name there, as an army officer pointed out today, will put Mr. Davis' name in the same category as the others now on the tablet, which because of its com-paratively inconspicuous position will not maker's skill. The vessel is under the command of an officer of the army, with a civilian sailing master of the army transport service to look after the nautical end. She was built to take the place of the Maj. Ring-gold, the Gen. Knox, the Gen. Hunt and other torpedo-handling craft of the army service that are now on their way from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast by way of the Straits of Magellan.

The steamer Joseph Henry, while not a large ship, is built for going to sea and is an able-looking craft. She has a steel hull and is driven by a propeller. Her engines and boilers are powerful enough to give the steamer a speed of over twelve miles an hour and to supply the hoists and other steam paraphenalia for handling the mine-planting equipment, with ample steam for effective work. The vessel is fitted with big drums for mine-laying cable. Her equipment is of the latest type for the work in which she is to be employed. Competition Among Monumental City Undertakers.

SEE BALTIMORE AND DIE

Cost of a Respectable Interment Reduced to $49.

CIRCUS METHODS UTILIZED

Bereaved Families Appealed to With All the Alluring Inducements of a Pushing Showman.

As Hindoos flock to the banks of the River Ganges and there patiently await their death, so the Baltimore undertakers would have all Marylanders and outlanders come to the Monumental city to breathe their last.

For the undertakers' trust is a dead letter in the great Maryland metropolis just now, and a cut-rate war is waging

The city of oysters, fires, narrow streets and Joe Gans has never been attractive to Washingtonians as a dwelling place, and as a place to die in it has never appeared to offer alluring inducements. But the public-spirited undertakers are doing their best to make it so.

Undertakers usually have little opportunity to display public spirit. As a matter of general belief they have none. If an undertakers' association subscribes hard for an undertaker to go into any as to ulterior motives.

Ingenuity in Baltimore.

The Baltimore undertakers are an ingenious lot, however, so they are making themselves popular with their fellowtownsmen by indulging in their little war. your death. They are letting everybody know what they are doing. The Balti-

Even now Hetty Green is said to be a regular reader of the Baltimore undertakers' advertisements. quoted. There is no doubt about what a funeral will cost you. Before dying you may know just how much to set aside for funeral expenses and just how much to leave to the little girl across the street who smiled at you on mornings when you went to work feeling grouchy. Furthermore guarantees of good service are pledged.

Competition Baffled. "It has been and always will be - policy to supply, with his renowned complete funerals at fixed prices a servce and equipment that has completely baffled with its excellence all wild efforts at competition," reads one advertisement, which has the press agent notices of Barnum & Bailey's circus, as written in the old days by "Tody" Hamilton, beaten to a whisper. Lower Rates Offered.

This price was promptly met by several announcing "a first-class complete funeral in every detail' for $50. A firm's card states that "recently at a funeral in West Baltimore, when the man of the family saw the carriages the undertaker had sent, he ordered half of them out of the line, as unfit to be seen in a decent funeral procession, and, telephoning to a respectable livery stable, ordered others on "Our hacks, hearses and all other equipment are the best and handsomest in Baltimore. That is the style in which we furnish our celebrated funerals, complete, at $50. Give us a chance to show you."
